

CALL FOR PAPERS
FALL 2007 ISSUE

Online Journal for Workforce Education and Development

Issues in Technical Education

Submission Deadline: November 12, 2007

The Editorial Board of Directors invites you to submit manuscripts for publication.

Mission

The Online Journal of Workforce Education and Development is a peer-reviewed publication produced by the Department of Workforce Education and Development at Southern Illinois University Carbondale intended to stimulate and disseminate scholarly activity on critical issues in workforce, career, and technical education, including training and development.

Intended Audience

The Journal is intended for teachers/professors in schools, colleges, and universities; human resource experts in corporate, military, educational and professional fields; and other specialists in workforce, career, and technical education.

Call for Papers

Faculty, practitioners, and students are invited to submit original manuscripts that can make a valuable contribution to multiple readerships in workforce, career, vocational, adult, and technical education. Papers can address discipline-specific topics, as well as those that are interdisciplinary are valued. Evaluation topics may include but are not limited to:

- Current and future trends in professional and technical education.
- Best practices in professional and technical education.
- Diversity in professional and technical education

Conceptual, developmental, and theoretical/applied research articles are welcomed.

For submission details please visit: <http://journalforworkforceeducation.org>